This map is one of a series of six maps comprising the Mineral Resource Map of Northern Ireland.

Scheduled Monument

Diatomite

Other limestone

Blown sand, which comprises fine- to medium-grained, subrounded to well-rounded quartz grains, results from aeolian

Iron and aluminium

Shale gas is extracted directly from mudrocks and shales which have previously been considered too impermeable (tight) to

Iron and aluminium

Shale gas can be released simply by drilling boreholes into those rock formations, shale gas is locked in the matrix of much less

Iron and aluminium

Shale gas

Tyrone, comparable Lower Carboniferous age sedimentary rocks, which contain barytes veins, have been explored for lead-

Iron and aluminium

County Londonderry is a minor producer of limestone accounting for one per cent of total production in Northern Ireland.

Iron and aluminium

Sedimentary and meta-sedimentary rocks

Dolerites, quartz dolerites and unaltered lamprophyre sills of the Caledonian intrusive suite generally have high PSV indices

Iron and aluminium

Larne

Lisbellaw

DG 1/08

Lonmin (NI) Ltd.

Alla No.2

Ballyarnet (Sag)

Carnanbane (Sag)

Edenmore (Met)

Kildoag Road (Sag)

Cumbria.

worked for roofing slates, although latterly these seem to have been replaced by slates from the west coast of Scotland and

worked for roofing slates, although latterly these seem to have been replaced by slates from the west coast of Scotland and work basalt of the Antrim Lava Group.

work basalt of the Antrim Lava Group.

GSNI maps covering Northern Ireland

County Londonderry

3

DG 1/08

Lonmin (NI) Ltd.